FROM AN ADDRESS

BY

DR. JOSEPH KRAUSKOPF

President and Founder of the National Farm School

October 12, 1919

The year's harvest of the Farm School comprises:

7,380	bushels of corn,	240	tons of hay,
2,590	bushels of oats,	30	tons of mangel,
800	bushels of rye,	30	tons of cabbage,
540	bushels of wheat,	2,000	ears of sweet corn,
420	bushels of potatoes,	80	heads of swine,
2,400	baskets of peaches,	50	heads of cattle,
600	barrels of apples,	8,284	dozen of eggs,
70	barrels of pears,	2,560	lbs. of poultry,
370	tons of silage,	168,070	quarts of milk,

upwards of $4,000 of vegetables of all kinds.

EXPANSION AND IMPROVEMENTS.

In addition to this splendid showing, the past year witnessed our taking possession of a new farm, comprising 110 acres, known as the Hellman Farm, named for Mr. Henry Hellman, of New York, the generous donor of it. The past year marked also the completion of the Hirsh Botanical Laboratory; the conversion of the one-time kitchen and dining-room of the Main Building into dormitory quarters; the drilling of a new well, 500 feet deep, and the installation of a new pump-house and pump; the construction of a large additional brooder-house and of an ice pond; the breeding of a pure-bred, highly productive herd of Holstein cows; the laying out of a Patriots' Grove, in which trees are being planted in honor of those who died or served abroad or at home, during the late war; the introduction of landscape features, the first of a series of outlined improvements which, in time, shall turn the grounds about the buildings and campus and roads into a picturesque park.

COMPELLED TO DRAW FROM ENDOWMENT FUND.

The financial condition of our institution has given us considerable concern. Our one-time $130,000 Endowment Fund has shrunk to $100,-

000, and is continually shrinking with every day. Try as we may, we cannot possibly run the institution at a lesser cost. The student-body and Faculty are larger than ever before, and nearly every article within the household, or on the farm, as well as the food and clothes furnished to our students, free of all charge to them, cost twice as much, and in some instances three times as much as before. The annual dues paid to the Institution have not been raised, neither has the number of subscribers increased. Owing to the heavy demands that nave been made on the people for war purposes, donations, which at one time came quite freely and liberally, have fallen off considerably. Applications for admission to our classes next spring are already reaching us almost daily. By next spring the number of applicants will be several hundreds, every one of whom possessing the necessary qualifications ought to be admitted, seeing that he wants to devote himself to one of the most needed and of the most honorable of callings. But how shall we be able to admit a larger number than we now care for, when we have no dormitory room to house any more, nor enough money to provide education and board even for as many as we have now, without depleting yet more an Endowment Fund which should never have been touched?

HIGH PRICES AND INCREASE IN STUDENT BODY.

The question that is often asked is: "Cannot the School be made self-supporting?"

CANNOT FARM SCHOOL BE SELF-SUPPORTING?

Were our plant of 475 acres nothing but a large farm, and were our students farmers, our School could not only be self-supporting but also lay by a very snug sum annually. Our plant, however, is primarily a school, and our students are mere learners of agriculture, and schools and learners are money-spenders, and not money-makers. By the time our students have learned enough to make their knowledge of value, they graduate, and give the benefit of what they have learned either to themselves on farms of their own, or to their employers. And the School has to start anew with green hands. Our chief concern is not how much money we might make, but how much instruction we can give.

The giving of an education is always expensive. Even schools that have pay students find it often difficult to make ends meet. How much more difficult, therefore, must it be for a school like ours, that not only gives its students tuition free of charge, but board, lodging and clothing, as well!

PROBLEM COULD BE PARTIALLY SOLVED.

And yet we could ease our financial burden considerably if we could increase our egg production by enlarging our poultry plant, and our flower production, by adding several greenhouses, and, above all, our milk supply by erecting the much-needed new Dairy, toward which Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, of New York, have generously donated the sum of $10,000. An additional sum of $25,000 would enable us to build and equip a thoroughly up-to-date, modern, sanitary Dairy and Barn, a Dairy that would provide every modern accommodation for butter and cheese production, and for pasteurizing and sanitary bottling of milk, and a rigidly sanitary Barn that would house in the neighborhood of a hundred cows. The milk produced and pasteurized and bottled in such a dairy as this would have a very large demand, and the supply of that demand would considerably increase the revenues of our School.

The needed enlargement of our Poultry and Greenhouse Plants would involve an expenditure not anything near as large as that required for the Dairy, but their combined added productiveness would add a continual and considerable sum to the earning power of our plant.

With the beautiful Morris Lasker Hall, and the Hirsh Botanical Laboratory completed, the new Dairy, and the additions to our Poultry and Greenhouse Plants would round out a group of buildings of which we would not only be justly proud, but we would also find ourselves to some extent relieved of the financial embarrassment under which we have labored for some time.

URGENT NEED OF A GIRL'S ANNEX.

I regard it my duty to dwell again upon the urgent need of a Girls' Annex to our Institution. In constantly increasing numbers, inquiries come to us from young women eager to leave the congested cities, for the purpose of obtaining a training in dairy culture, floriculture, fruit culture, poultry culture, bee culture, and the like. It is a line of work that is peculiarly suited to young women, especially to such as feel within them the Call of the Farm, and are eager to escape the degenerating influence of the overcrowded city. As a pursuit for a livelihood, it is as profitable as any of the manual callings open to women, and healthier and nobler and more contenting than many that are followed by women in shops, mills, factories or offices.

The young men who fit themselves here and elsewhere for agricultural careers are particularly interested in seeing women enter the calling which they, themselves, have chosen. They are looking forward to the time when they will want to establish their own homes, and would naturally prefer to select as wife one who has been weaned from the lure of the city, one who has become accustomed to rural life, and has been sufficiently trained in the lighter branches of the science and practice of agriculture to be able to become, in every sense, a helpmate to her husband. We know of a few instances of careers of graduates of agricultural schools having been blasted because they were mated with city girls who found rural life lonesome, and who did not rest till they dragged their farming husbands back to the city, for the work and ways of which these were as little fitted as their wives had been fitted for the life upon the farm.

WORKABLE PLAN OUTLINED.

The introduction of such a Girls' Annex would afford a splendid opportunity for some one philanthropically inclined. It would not involve a large expense. A farm conveniently near the Farm School grounds might be purchased, one supplied with a farm house large enough to accommodate several dozens of young women. Their instruction they would receive at the Farm School, where they would, likewise, take their meals. In charge of a competent matron and assistants, the necessary discipline would be maintained. In addition, the presence of young women of such high ideals as theirs, young women voluntarily seeking country life and farming pursuits, young women morally, mentally and physically healthy (as none other would be admitted), would prove a most desirable adjunct to the social life of the institution.

GIVE WHILE YOU LIVE.

If I had money to give, and would like to perpetuate my name among the living, I would know of no institution more deserving of being associated with after death than such a Girls' Annex, or any of the other buildings, of some of which I have spoken as being needed at this institution. And I would not wait until after my death. I would give while I live, and I would enjoy the fruit of my giving while I am capable of seeing and enjoying.

Many things I have hoped and prayed for in the history of the Institution have come to pass, though there were those who doubted, and those who regarded the realization of our hope impossible. I believe that every one of the urgent needs which I have pointed out today as well as of the other needs of which I have not spoken, will come to us, in God's own time, and in God's own way. The cause is deserving of it, and the results attained have shown that we husbanded prudently whatever moneys we have been favored with.

AGRICULTURE A CURE FOR MANY ILLS.

In this connection, I want to express my sincere appreciation of the appropriation of $10,000 annually, for the next two years, which the present Legislature of Pennsylvania recently voted to us, and to the Federation of Jewish Charities of Philadelphia, for its appropriation of $18,000 toward the maintenance of our Institution. As but for these valuable appropriations the School could not continue, theirs must be the proud satisfaction of knowing that they are keeping alive an Institution in which many scores of young men, irrespective of creed, fit themselves annually, for the oldest, noblest, and most needed of all callings—a calling that constitutes the foundation of our nation's prosperity and safety, a calling without which every other would be useless, a calling which, were it understood and appreciated as it deserves to be, would command many times as large a support as it now receives at the hands of the public, a calling which, were it to receive the support it merits, would empty half of the hospitals and asylums, half of the reformatories and penitentiaries, half of the slums and ghettos, would cure society of half of the social and economic diseases that now vex and perplex the peoples of the earth.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

February 22, 1919.

The Eighteenth Annual Graduation Exercises of The National Farm School were held in Segal Hall, on the grounds of the School, Saturday afternoon, February 22d (Washington's Birthday).

The Graduation Address was delivered by Mr. Leigh Mitchell Hodges, distinguished writer and speaker. Short addresses were made by Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, President and Founder of the School; by Dr. Louis Nusbaum, Chairman of the Educational Committee of the School; and by Prof. Bernhard Ostrolenk, Director of the School, who, in awarding the diplomas, announced that all of the members of the graduating class had obtained exceptionally fine positions, for which they would leave the following day.

Diplomas were awarded the following young men, all of whom had completed the full three-years' course in practical and scientific agriculture:

David Brown	Philip Harwitz	Samuel Miller
Bernard Goldsmith	Benjamin Joffe	Jacob Rabinowitz
Joseph Goldstein	Ernest Katz	Morris Schlossberg
William Greenberg	Jacob I. Mannes	Max Segal
Samuel Greenberg	Irving Marcus	Imanuel Viener
John Hahne	Jack Miller	George Wolf

Richard Boyes and Morris Mayer were awarded the post-graduate certificate for one additional year, having specialized in Farm Management.

The Pennsylvania State College Scholarship was awarded to Morris Schlossberg, who waived the privilege, in order to accept the post-graduate course at The National Farm School, as manager of the Hellman Farm. The Post-graduate course as manager of Schoenfeld Farm No. 1, was awarded to Jacob Mannes. The Massinger Veterinary Prize was also awarded to Mr. Mannes.

Following the Graduation Exercises, the members of the Boards made an inspection of the various departments of the School, after which they, together with the Graduating Class, were the guests of the Faculty and Household at dinner.

TWENTY-SECOND ANNUAL SPRING EXERCISES AND CONSECRATION OF THE PATRIOTS' GROVE.

JUNE 1, 1919.

Amid impressive ceremonies, in the presence of hundreds of the institution's friends, the consecration of "The Patriots' Grove," planted as a memorial to those who gave their lives in the country's service, and in honor of those who returned from the war in safety, took place on Sunday, June 1, on the grounds of The National Farm School.

The dedication of a Botanical Laboratory, erected by Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hirsh, of Philadelphia, in memory of their son, Edward William Hirsh; a flagpole, planted in "The Patriots' Grove" by the Hon. and Mrs. Jacob Singer, of Philadelphia, in memory of their son, Henry Frank Singer, who died on the battlefield of Montfaucon, France; 187 memorial trees, in memory of departed friends of the School; and 36 festive trees, in honor of joyous occasions in the lives of friends of the School was included in the exercises.

The speakers included Edward Bok, Editor of "The Ladies Home Journal"; Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Lawyer and Author; Harry W. Ettelson, Associate Rabbi Congregation Rodeph Shalom; John H. Mason, President, Commercial Trust Company; John M. Patterson, Judge of Common Pleas Court; Joseph Pennell, Artist and Author, and Joseph Krauskopf, President and Founder of The National Farm School.

As the special train bearing the visitors drew up at the Farm School Station, the students of the School, clad in their blue uniforms, stood at salute while the guests passed, then marched in military formation to the grove where the exercises took place.

The exercises were opened with an invocation by Rabbi Harry W. Ettelson, followed by a few introductory remarks by Dr. Krauskopf, who spoke of the progress made by the School since the days when it consisted of but one small building.

"People said it was foolish," he said, "to teach boys to go into the country and farm, when boys by the thousands were leaving the country to go into the city, but the results accomplished here have proved the contrary. I believe the teaching of farm work to boys is one of the most patriotic services any institution can do, for it is on agriculture that a country ultimately must depend for its existence.

"The National Farm School was started here with only one building, very little equipment and no animals. Now the barns, instruction buildings and experiment stations cover a wide territory, and horses, cattle and other animals are raised in large numbers. These animals are raised in the most scientific manner just as the agricultural products are cultivated scientifically, and it is this practical work that is making farmers out of the one hundred and ten boys in the School, who are gaining an agricultural training that is second to none in the country, both for theoretical and practical instruction."

Dr. Krauskopf then introduced Judge Patterson as the Presiding Officer of the day, who, in taking charge of the Exercises, declared that the United States offers opportunities from the agricultural viewpoint, which are unexcelled in any other country in the world. "Away out here in the country, where men live and breathe the pure air under God's green trees, away from the petty struggles, the petty jealousies, the petty rivalries of the big city, the students of the Farm School are living—really living—enjoying a great opportunity, learning a great thing and doing that thing in the way that Dr. Krauskopf, who has virtually dedicated his life to the success of the Farm School, would have them to do," asserted Judge Patterson.

Mr. Mason, whose topic was to be "The National Farm School, a Patriotic Institution," stated he didn't intend to speak of the School as a patriotic institution, for "it speaks for itself more than any words can do. True patriotism," he asserted, "means charity—to be somebody's fellow-man and fellow-worker in some great effort—not putting up stones as memorials, but lives."

To Joseph Pennell was given a subject which comprehensively covered the foundation of the entire service. It was the address of the Tree Consecration. That trees, as symbols, have been such from the time of the events in the Garden of Eden, the symbolic effect of the Cedars of Lebanon, the acts of the Romans as typified in the tree, the assertion that every form of architecture is traceable in symbol to the tree, was a prelude to Mr. Pennell's assertion that Americans should plant trees as the Romans and the French planted them. He told of the famous tree-lined avenue that has its start in Rome, crosses the Alps and has its terminus in Paris—and stated that tree-planting, for memorial purposes, should have serious consideration. "There should be lines of trees, to shade and to beautify, every mile of the Lincoln Highway, a tribute in memory of the men who died in the service. The Patriots' Grove at the Farm School is typical. It is splendid. But, somewhere along that notable highway there should be, at some not too far distant time, 'The Road and the Grove of The National Farm School,' " was his concluding comment.

"Trees as a Mode of Commemoration," made the basis of a brief talk by Edward Bok, in which he called attention to the opportunities reflected in the future lives of the Farm School enrolment by reason of the training they are given under the most attractive natural surroundings possible to develop.

At the Dedication of the Edward William Hirsh Botanical Laboratory, a tribute to the memory of the young men was paid by Harold A. Lebair, who said in part, "This splendid building is a gift, not only to the Farm School, but to the general cause of learning. It has been erected to give other boys an opportunity to enjoy some of the rare privileges which were given to Edward Hirsh by his parents. It is to be hoped that, inspired by this monument, they may develop those manly qualities which were so well evidenced by Edward Hirsh, a true lover of nature. The boys of this and coming generations through this splendid memorial will have an opportunity of acquiring learning, and to appreciate nature, and through their knowledge, to develop and show those qualities which mean eventual leadership among men."

In the address, incident to the dedication of the Henry

Frank Singer Flagpole in the Patriots' Grove, Franklin Spencer Edmonds gave a brief resumé of the battle of Montfaucon, in which young Singer gave his life, concluding in a touching tribute to the young soldier: 'A gentle boy, Henry Frank Singer, the hope of a distinguished and honored family, a graduate of our proudest schools and colleges, a student of Art and Literature, a lover of the Drama, one whose life had been cast in literary and aesthetic lines, and who had already, through his personality and ability made for himself endearing and lasting friendships—here he did his last and greatest work, and here serving on the front line in a dangerous duty, he met his end!

"What memorial could be more fitting to such a man than that, in this grove of this great institution, where thousands of young men in the future will receive the training and impetus which will fit them for life, that here should be placed the American flag,—the undying testimony to the principles of Liberty and Justice, for which Henry Singer was content to lay down his young life!

"I am told, Mr. Chairman, that the flag is now about to be unfurled, but it is concealed from our view by the grove. I, therefore, move that this entire assemblage, while the flag is being raised, rise and stand at quiet attention for one minute, in reverent memory of those who laid down their lives in the service of the Country."

The vast audience arose while the flag was unfurled, and Dr. Joseph Krauskopf then read the names of those for whom trees had been planted in the new Patriots' Grove.

This was followed by the blowing of taps, after which Dr. Krauskopf read the names of those friends of the School for whom Memorial and Festive Trees had been planted and inscribed during the year. (The list of names is published on pages 15 to 18 of this book.) At the conclusion of the ceremony, after the recital of a closing prayer by Rabbi Ettelson, luncheon was served to the guests in the new Morris Lasker Hall, and the afternoon was spent in an inspection of the buildings and grounds, and visits to the Memorial, Festive and Patriots' Groves.

TWENTY-SECOND ANNUAL SUCCOTH HARVEST PILGRIMAGE

October 12, 1919.

For the first time in the twenty-two years of its existence, inclement weather interfered with the usual large attendance that has been the customary feature of National Farm School gatherings, somewhat less than 100 persons having braved the elements to be present at what turned out to be an affair of unusual interest.

The Exercises were held in Segal Hall, which presented a festive and charming appearance, being beautifully decorated with the products of the farms.

The speakers of the occasion were Dr. Felix Adler, founder and president of the Ethical Culture Society, and professor Columbia University; Dr. Morris Jastrow, Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania; Judge Isaac Johnson, of Delaware County; Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, President and Founder of The National Farm School, and Bernhard Ostrolenk, its Director.

Governor William C. Sproul, of Pennsylvania, was also to have been one of the speakers, but owing to an accident to his automobile, while on the way to the School, occasioned by the inclement weather, was compelled to abandon the trip.

After an invocation by Rabbi James G. Heller, Judge Johnson was presented by Dr. Krauskopf, as the presiding officer of the day.

The first speaker was Dr. Felix Adler, who in the course of a thoughtful and interesting address, brought out the following points:

"Agriculture is unquestionably the stabilizing influence and occupation in this time of country-wide unrest. The more men who can be drawn back to the field of agriculture, the stronger is the ballast given to a vacillating population. The great counter-influence to civilization is unrest. Agriculture is a vocation, while manual labor in the factories is monotonous occupation—this, because of the splendid opportunities afforded in agriculture for a man to be a scientist, to apply chemistry and biology, and in the genius of creation in the development of new breeds and varieties. Agriculture is also practical poetry. One thing to be urged is the establishment of co-operative community centres—to emphasize the social side of the farmer's life, to eliminate the one remaining drawback to agriculture, and this is the loneliness of conditions in certain farming sections. Do not permit the farmers to live a lonely life. Agriculture is becoming a liberal vocation. It liberalizes man's neutrality. When the work we do stimulates intelligence, it makes for humanity."

The next speaker was Professor Morris Jastrow, Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania, who dwelt on the increased importance of such institutions as The National Farm School, as a result of the experiences through which the world has recently passed. He said in part, "The slogan, 'Food Will Win the War,' emphasized the startling fact that the rapid growth of industry and commerce and the neglect of agriculture had made our civilization top heavy. The acute crisis is over, but the entire world is still struggling with the problem of food.

"An institution like The National Farm School is rendering a direct service to civilization in providing a counter-balance to materialism which has always been the menace involved in what is known as progressive civilization. To find the proper proportion between commerce and industry on the one hand and agriculture on the other is the fundamental problem involved in the work of reconstruction upon which the entire world is now engaged with a view of producing more stable conditions than those which led to the great catastrophe."

Dr. Krauskopf then presented a résumé of the School's work and achievements for the past year, an abstract of which is published on pages 5 to 8 of this book.

The next speaker was Director Ostrolenk, who, in the course of an admirable address, said: "The National Farm School is one of the solutions of the high cost of living. Thoughtful men, patriotic men, forward-looking men cannot fail to see the sanity of the solution offered by Dr. Krauskopf through the School he founded twenty-two years ago. It becomes essential to intensify its work, to expand its acres, to accommodate more students, to make it a centre for a more aggressive rural propaganda, to enable it to assist a larger portion of those that seek practical advice. For all these things more funds are needed. The School is pressed for funds to carry on its present work, to say nothing of undertaking the enormous new service it would like to render. Its doors are today crowded to the limit with students. All indications are that over three hundred students will seek admission this coming spring, of whom we will only be able to admit thirty, or if we crowd our dormitories, possibly forty. Additional equipment is needed on the farms to carry on properly the kind of teaching we are committed to, if our student body is to be improved. Primarily we will need more land. The board, under the leadership of Dr. Krauskopf, have felt the need of rendering this service, and have courageously voted funds in the face of decreasing subscriptions to the School and ever-increasing cost of maintenance and almost prohibitive cost of expansion. They have patriotically faced the situation in spite of a shrinking sinking fund, hopeful that an awakened public will not forsake them in this emergency. To support The National Farm School, to assist it in its great work of supplying plenty, and, therefore, cheaper food to the nation is a social duty, an act of preservation of civilized society."

Reports of the year's work were then presented by members of the Board and Faculty of the School, after which the election of officers and members of the Board was held. The exercises concluded with military drills by the students and the distribution of prizes for meritorious work.

An informal reception and luncheon was then tendered the guests of honor, in the Morris Lasker Hall, during the course of which Dr. Krauskopf announced a gift of $1000 from Mr. Henry S. Belber, of Philadelphia, toward the girls' annex; $2000 from an anonymous friend, toward the dairy; and $1000 from Mr. Isaac D. Straus, of Ligonier, Ind.

The Edward Hirsh Botanical Laboratory, a Recent Gift to the School by Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hirsh, of Philadelphia, in Memory of Their Son.

ABRAHAM KROTOSHINSKY, the hero who saved "The Lost Battalion" in the Argonne Forest, is now a student at THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL, where he is receiving a training in practical and scientific agriculture, for the great Army of Peace, that is needed to raise food to feed the hungry world.

The story of Abraham Krotoshinsky is an oft-told tale, but one that bears repetition among the most heroic. This young man was a private in Co. K, 307th Infantry, when his battalion, under the command of Col. Whittlesey, was surrounded in the Argonne Forest. They were short of rations. They tried to get word back to the rear, telling of their plight, but their men never got through. Paralysis and stupefaction and despair were in the air. And when the hour was darkest, and all seemed lost, Abraham Krotoshinsky stepped forward and said, "I will try to get through." He tried, he was wounded, he had to creep and crawl, but he got through, and he saved "The Lost Battalion."

Upon his discharge from the army, desiring to pursue agriculture as his future profession, he applied for admission to The National Farm School, was admitted, and is now applying the same earnestness, which he brought to the grim business of war, to the work of the great Agricultural Army of Peace, whose slogan is: "They shall beat their spears into pruning hooks, and their swords into plowshares."

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FARMS

HERBERT D. ALLMAN, Chairman.

The Farms Committee is well satisfied with the products of the farms for the past year, and much pleased with the results achieved by the faculty and student body, and takes pleasure in submitting a brief report of the activities of the various farms and departments under its supervision.

THE HOME FARM.—The intensifying of the dairy herd has been the characterizing feature on this farm. The policy has been to continue breeding towards a pure bred herd. Today we have fifteen pure bred cows, and eighteen head of pure bred stock growing up, to give us a good start on our other farms. After a semi-annual test, we find all our stock free from tuberculosis. To demonstrate the high calibre of our stock, five of them were submitted to test by the Holstein Fresian Association, and were all admitted.

The corn yielded excellent returns and the hay crop was the best we have had in many years. In the piggery we have been raising the standard of breeding, and results have been very satisfactory. Much of this success is due to the efficient management of Mr. Meyer Goldman, assisted by Mr. Harman Kraft and Mr. Bernard Goldsmith, post graduate.

SCHOENFELD FARM NO. 1, in charge of Post Graduate Mr. Jacob Mannes, has been ably handled, showing a milk flow of nearly seventy-five thousand pounds for the year, maintained by twelve cows, a five per cent. increase.

SCHOENFELD FARM NO. 2.—The peach crop gave a goodly yield and an extra good price. The apple orchard, after patient and careful spraying, pruning and fertilization, is bringing very ample returns. The hay crop on this farm has been the best harvested in many years.

SCHOENFELD FARM NO. 3, in charge of Mr. Howard F. Young, yielded an excellent crop of hay, and a corn crop which exceeded sixty bushels to the acre on the forty-acre planting. The summer rains were a little hard on our grain, but we managed to save the major portion of the crop. The returns from the dairy have been highly satisfactory.

We are sure our friends and patrons will be highly pleased with the new lake, built by Mr. Young and his students on this farm, at a cost of less than $200, which would have cost that many thousand dollars, if done by an outside contractor. This lake is not only a very artistic addition to this already beautiful landscape; but has a triple advantage, in that it will make a safe and pleasant bathing spot for our boys in the summer, and an excellent skating pond in the winter, besides furnishing the School with sufficient good ice for all of its needs. Formerly we cut our ice on the Neshaminy Creek, quite a distance from our base, and this new project will save us considerable time and money.

Hellman Farm, in charge of Post Graduate Mr. M. Schlossberg, is in good working order. The summer rains ruined a small portion of the grain, but by feeding it to the stock, put on this farm for that purpose, the actual loss was very small. We sold some topwood from the woods of this farm, and an abundance of good timber still remains. About thirty acres have been seeded in grass for the coming year.

The Horticultural Department.—The Edward Hirsh Botanical Laboratory, recently completed and dedicated, has given an additional charm to this always pretty spot, and is not only a valuable architectural addition, but also a very useful building for the study of plant life. Mr. Drue Allman, who has had charge of this department for the past four years, has resigned to teach at Cornell University, and is succeeded as Horticulturist, by Mr. Mark A. Cassidy who, like his predecessor, is also a graduate of Cornell University.

Mr. Drue Allman during his incumbency at the School was also director of the Social Service Bureau, and through his enthusiasm and whole-hearted devotion to the School and the welfare of the students, made also a splendid success of this work. His popularity among the students can perhaps best be gauged by the fact that they presented him with a handsome silver loving cup, upon his departure from the School for his new field of endeavor.

THE POULTRY DEPARTMENT, in charge of Mr. C. J. Toor, deserves special commendation, as Mr. Toor (who is a graduate of the Farm School) is on his job day and night, and is producing results. The brooder capacity has been doubled—the yield of eggs last year being over 8000 dozen. The live stock is being increased at a rapid and practical rate, and we are contemplating making extensions and further improvements in this department next spring.

GENERAL.—A new Pump House has been built by the students; a pump has been installed and motor attached. The depth of the well is 500 feet with a capacity of 30 gallons per minute. A new Patriots' Grove has been laid out and will soon show results. All roads and fences on the entire plant are in excellent condition.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' AUXILIARY BOARD

Mr. A. M. Klein, Chairman.

The Ladies of the Auxiliary Board have visited The National Farm School under rather difficult auspices during the past year, the train service being so very poor. In spite of this, they have been most faithful, and their interest and helpful suggestions have done much to improve the efficiency of the household.

Our matron, Miss Churchman, reports two thousand and ninety quarts of fruit and vegetables canned for winter use, in addition to seventy-eight gallons of apple butter in storage. The fall preserving was, unfortunately, hampered by the sugar shortage. We aim to conserve five times this amount another year.

Under the careful supervision of our trained nurse, Miss Colvin, the high standard of health of our institution has been maintained.

The Sewing Circle, with Mrs. R. B. Schoneman and Mrs. S. R. Goldsmith at its head, has resumed its meetings and earnest efforts will be made to restock the linen room.

Mrs. David Kirschbaum and Mrs. Gabriel Blum are arranging a series of dances to be given at The National Farm School, while Mrs. David Phillips has consented to supervise the moving pictures which are shown each week.

The Auxiliary Board offers as a suggestion that a solution for many of the household problems of The National Farm School might be found, if homes could be built on the school grounds for members of the teaching staff and their families.

REPORT OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

CECIL J. TOOR, Secretary.

Already plans for a get-together meeting and banquet, to be held next June, at the occasion of the Annual Spring Pilgrimage to Farm School, are formulating. This promises to be the largest meeting in the history of the Alumni Association, as judged by the many graduates who have already expressed their eagerness to attend. A large proportion of the seventy-six members who have seen service with Uncle Sam are expected.

The problem of the year has been the placing of graduates discharged from service overseas, on farms, and we are pleased to report that Director Bernhard Ostrolenk, Chairman of the Executive Committee, has succeeded in placing all those who have applied to him, on good, paying positions as superintendents, dairymen, herdsmen, poultrymen, etc.

At this year's annual meeting of the Association, held June 1, 1919, a drive was launched to have one hundred men pledge themselves Ten Dollars per year for Ten Years, all moneys collected to be expended in the School for the welfare of its students. The committee in charge report favorable progress; and feel certain that the quota will be filled at the next annual meeting.

The following is a list of what some of our graduates are doing. Were we to hear from all of them, this list would be augmented by many names. It is respectfully requested that any member of the Alumni, who may be in touch with any graduate, whose name does not appear in the list, will kindly forward same, with his present location, to the Alumni Association.

For Your Children's Sake

YOU have planned to give them advantages, education, help over the rough spots of life—but have you realized that the dominant factor in forming your child's character is the home.

Perhaps some have taken too much for granted —perhaps we have even slighted home comfort to finance the future schooling.

Environment during the youngster's days is shaping the man. The home atmosphere is wholesome, of course; but it is made cheerful by electric lighting—is the light adequate so as not to strain the young eyes—has the mother freedom from household duties that she can give the companionship and care she should to her little one.

Today electric service in the home means the desirable environment and freedom from household drudgery and decided economy as well.
